TIM DYER

Tim works with John Mark Extension and has provided training in self care, mentoring and church consulting to many Pastors and churches throughout Australia.

Ministry exposes us to a surprising range of situations, crises and emotional pressures. The compounding effect of walking with people through a crisis or hard times can impact on our own emotional wellbeing. At times there is also the danger of carrying the emotional baggage of others. This conference will give you some skills to help minimise this impact and also provide you with some skills to promote self-care and prevent burnout.

Tim is known to many Presbyterian ministers and has worked with our retreat groups, training mentors and church consultancy teams. He has great experience in working with ministers across many denominations in promoting good self-care.
